2. MCM-L #20 Re-adjusting to Life

查看原题 >

0:00 / 0:00

Re-adjusting to life in your own country after living abroad for some time is a little like recovering from jet-lag after a long flight across several time zones. It takes time. And research indicates that after nine years living in a foreign country you never really do re-adjust. Of course, things have changed: governments have come and gone, what you knew as countryside has become a suburb, new technologies have changed the way people go about their daily lives, and so on. These changes may well have been taking place in your adopted country, but they were happening while you were there, so you could adapt as you went along. Those are nor the main difficulties, however. It is in the smaller, everyday things that you might experience what is known as culture shock, although it's not really a shock. but puzzling all the same. For example, the precise way to behave at a supermarket checkout may have changed. And in ordinary conversation, the frames of reference have changed, and quite often you find that you don't really know what people are talking about, even though they are speaking your native tongue.

Question :

Which of the following are mentioned as being difficult to re-adapt to when returning to your native country after a long absence?

Choices :

- A) Technological change
- B) More than nine years absence
- C) The difference in time zones
- D) The way people go about their daily lives
- E) People's terms of reference in conversation
- F) Changes in government

🔊 ⋮

Listen to part of a lecture and answer the questions. Ok, now let's talk about handball violations. I bet you all know that you aren't supposed to use your hands when you play soccer. It is called a handball violation. You cannot touch any part of the ball with your hands unless you are the goalkeeper. Only the goalkeeper can touch the ball with his hands. A handball violation includes using any part of the body from the fingers to the shoulders. Until here. This is all you know, now I want to ask you some questions. First, picture the situation in the middle of a game. A player kicks the ball and the ball touches the hand of the opposite team player, but he didn't touch it intentionally. Now, is it a handball violation? I want you to think about it. Here goes another question. What if the kicker did that intentionally? Is it a handball violation?

Choices :

- A) The role of intentions in handball violations
- B) Handball violations by goalkeepers
- C) The referee in soccer games
- D) A soccer game without rules

答案 :

A

7. SMW #51 Migration

查看原题 >

In the nineteenth century, there were several periods when large numbers of people moved from one place to another around the world. In many cases, people move to another continent. These mass migrations were on a much larger scale than any previous migrations in history. One major movement was from europe to the americas, australia and africa. This migration of europeans involved around sixty million people over one hundred years. Another mass migration was from russia to siberia and central asia. Another was from china, india and japan to southeast asia. These large movements of people were made possible by the new cheap and fast means of.

No that was, and that’s an important aspect, as you referred to earlier we’ve previously done work which has proven that in some circumstances , even people whose blood pressure is not high, can benefit from blood pressure lowering rehabilitation . So in this study the main reason that we included the patients was because of diabetes, we didn’t care what their blood pressure was, whether it was high or low. And our intention was to see whether or not lowering average or below average blood pressure in diabetics was beneficial and the effect suggested that irrespective of whether your blood pressure was high or low, if you had diabetes you profited .

10. HIW #317 Classified Advertisements

查看原题 >

0:00 / 0:00

Classified advertisements placed by individuals in newsprint and magazines are not covered by the Advertising Standards Authority's " court of practice". If you happen to buy goods that have been wrongly described in such an advertisement, and have lost money as a result, the only thing you can do is bring a case against the person who placed the advertisement for misrepresentation or for breach of contrast . In this case, you would use the small claims procedure, which is a relatively cheap way to sue for the recovery of a debt. If you want to pursue a claim, you should take into account whether the person you are suing will be able to pay damages, should any be rewarded . Dishonest traders are wary of this and often pose as private sellers to expose the legal loopholes that exist: that is, they may claim they are not in a position to pay damages.
